Antarctica Camping Outline

G Adventures Inc. (“G Adventures”) offers an overnight camping excursion during the Expedition’s Antarctica season. We do not offer camping in the Arctic. This adventure requires an extra payment to participate.

Overnight camping is an opportunity for passengers to participate in a unique adventure while on their Antarctic trip without needing any prior experience. This activity includes spending one night sleeping onshore with a group of up to 60 fellow campers to experience the sights and sounds, cold and isolation of the coldest, driest, windiest continent on the planet. This activity typically lasts a duration of 10-12 hours.

Participants in the program will be responsible for the set up and tear down of their own camping equipment.

At an opportune time, the group will come together for an orientation meeting held by the Camp Leader in order to provide all participants with the necessary information to take part. You will receive an introduction which will include an overview of IAATO (International Association of Antarctica Tour Operators) rules and regulations, the duration of the outing, the clothing you’ll need to bring, how to sleep warmly, the use of the camping equipment and any necessary safety or camping procedures you’ll require to safely enjoy your night’s stay. Radio communications as well as additional safety gear will be brought to shore by the Expedition team accompanying participants on their overnight stay. The meeting will also serve to review the risks inherent in the activity.

After dinner has finished aboard, you will travel to your campsite by Zodiac and after setting up your cozy home for the evening, you’ll have time to explore the nearby area and enjoy the Antarctic evening. Expedition Staff members will accompany you and your fellow campers. Your comfort will be enhanced by the equipment supplied to you like comfortable tents, insulating mats, minus 12°C sleeping bags, and the best views ever from a portable toilet! The ship will stay overnight in the area. In the morning, you’ll be woken up early to break camp and to return to the ship for a warm shower and a hearty breakfast.

This is a once in a lifetime opportunity to experience the Antarctic environment in a truly unique and memorable setting. As with all other landings and activities during our expedition, weather and ice conditions may force cancellation of this activity.

All tents are twin-share;
solo travellers will be paired with another traveller of the same gender.

Trip Preparation Notes

The Experience

Previous camping experience is not necessary to participate in this activity, however, as we are in an ecologically sensitive environment, we ask that members of the group follow closely the instructions of the expedition staff. This will be in respect of our interaction with our surroundings in order to minimize impacts and ensure that we at all times meet and exceed IAATO (International Association of Antarctica Tour Operators) regulations.

Dinner will be served aboard and we suggest you eat heartily; as per IAATO regulations, no food or drinks beyond water is permitted ashore. As water will NOT be provided, you must fill up your water bottle prior to leaving the ship. There will be emergency rations in the event that our schedule becomes extended as a result of weather conditions.

Wake up time will be about an hour before breakfast, allowing time for you to collect your belongings and tear down your camping equipment before journeying back to the ship by Zodiac. As with all other programs on board, our goal is to leave our site with the minimum of evidence of our adventure under the stars.

We will provide all tents, sleeping bags, and sleeping mats. Additionally, we will have at our disposal a full suite of emergency supplies should the need arise. Toilet facilities will be rustic at best. We will provide a portable toilet which participants must use if they feel the call of nature. We must bring all waste - human or otherwise - generated back to the ship for proper disposal, as per our responsibilities as stewards of this pristine environment. We will endeavor to provide a certain level of privacy to the best of our ability.

Participants will be expected to participate and stay for the duration of the activity. There will be no shuttle provided during the night to return to the ship, except in emergency situations.

What to Bring

Preparation for this excursion is as you would prepare for a Zodiac excursion. We recommend that you prepare for potentially adverse conditions. As you will be in the open air for a good part of the evening, an extra fleece would be handy to have. A hat, gloves or mittens, and extra thick socks are a necessity for a chilly evening, and good windproof, waterproof pants will keep you extra warm and comfortable for the evening. You will, of course, have use of your warm complementary parka designed specifically for adventuring in the polar regions.

If you have medication that you need or use, please ensure that you have sufficient quantity to last for at least 36 hours onshore. Passengers must be in good health for this excursion.

Terms and Conditions

Your Camping Experience

Your camping excursion will take place in one of the roughest and toughest environments in a remote part of the world. We cannot guarantee any location because our ability to do so very much depends on the weather and ice conditions, which can be changeable, and over which we have no control. We do not guarantee a camping excursion on the continent itself.

The descriptions in the Antarctica Camping Outline and Trip Preparation Notes are made in the belief and with care that they are accurate, but due to the camping excursion being very much dependent on the natural environment, we cannot guarantee that it will take place as described. If we are unable to provide you with a full camping excursion due to medical emergency, weather and ice conditions, or any circumstance beyond our control, no refund of money paid will be made.

Equipment and Safety

To take part in the camping excursion, you must be appropriately dressed. Details of the recommended clothing are listed in the Trip Preparation Notes. You are reminded that in Antarctica, the weather conditions can change rapidly with little or no warning. It is therefore important that you are adequately dressed for the worst possible conditions.

In the interests of your safety and comfort, and that of the other participants, it is very important that you listen to, understand, and comply with any and all instructions given by the expedition team. Instructions will be provided in English. If you are unable to understand any of the instructions, we reserve the right to refuse you participation based on safety concerns about communicating during an emergency situation.

Your Health

You must declare: (1) when you book this camping excursion and (2) immediately prior to starting your camping excursion, any pre-existing medical condition or illness, or poor state of health. Before starting your expedition, you should visit a doctor for a personal medical examination to ensure that you are fully able to participate in the camping excursion, and we shall assume that you have done so. If you are recovering from or had recently any major illness or surgery, then by participating in the camping excursion, you may be placing yourself and others at risk. If so, we would strongly advise you not to take part. Participants will be ashore for approximately 10-12 hours in potentially adverse weather conditions. In an emergency, medical treatment and availability may be delayed by weather and ice conditions beyond our control. As there is always a risk that time onshore could be extended as a result of circumstances beyond our control, passengers must have the health stamina to handle such a situation. The Expedition Leader or Camp Leader may refuse to allow a passenger to participate in this excursion if there are evident health concerns.

Liability Waiver Form

As you will be camping in cold and icy conditions, there will be the constant risk of personal injury. You must accept that element of risk. You will be required to have medical and travel insurance and to sign a separate Liability Waiver Form expressly assuming the risks associated with the camping excursion and releasing G Adventures Inc., (and all other related, affiliated, associated or otherwise connected corporations, partnerships, individuals and other entities and all of their respective officers, directors, employees, contractors, agents, successors and assigned, from all liability (including but not limited to injury, loss or death) and waiving all claims. You will not be permitted to participate in the camping program unless you execute this form.

Camping is restricted to those persons 18 years of age and over.

Please note the Liability Waiver Form will be completed on board the ship prior to your camping excursion.
